

MICHELLE'S STORY: SKILLS TO SUCCEED

VIDEO TRANSCRIPT

My favourite thing about the Skills to Succeed programme is that if you didn't know something, or wanted it to be further explained to you, they would explain it in a way, how, you could understand it better and you wouldn't feel as if you was in trouble for not knowing the answer or asking questions.

Before I came on to the Skills to Succeed, I didn't have a CV, and if I did it only had my name on it, my phone number, maybe an email address and a short bio which didn't really tell employers' what I wanted them to know about me.

I was taught how to write a CV, and what information to put on there, and how to make it so that my life skills from being a mum were actually included and showed that I actually had other skills and had done things before.
