Behind every great change is a great human...

#StoriesOfAccenture

I thought being good, may be enable to do everything independently

Whatever I had to learn, I did.

So, I focused on improving myself.

I was a successful one-man team.

I got all these improvements.

But still it wasn't enough.

What was I missing?

I realized I was overlooking what was truly important to me.

Now I had to make an effort to really improve on what I lacked most.

On your own, you can be good

But at leading and mentoring others you can be great

Equipping you with all the skills to future-proof your career

This is David. This is his story.

Thanks to continuous technical skills training, David successfully handled eight different roles in Accenture in six years.

After working on his leadership skills, he found his niche as a mentor serving others.
